Glazing Design

We can produce different types of glass made according to our customer's sample or design, supporting our clientèle by assisting them in the most suitable design choices to minimise costs and guarantee a product with the best possible performance levels for its use.

Glazing Production

The glass production department is in a position to support the preparation of material in small and large batches in various types: flat glass, curved glass, tempered laminated glass, screen printed glass with perforations and notches, assembled in simple double-glazing or shaped and staggered.

Glazing Application

Our product applications vary across different sectors of the construction industry, interior décor, ships and railway systems and thanks to a host of type approvals developed over the years in different types of glazing.

With the forglass brand, we support the automotive sector with supplies for the initial outfitting, spare parts and prototyping to support the outfitting of civil and military lorries, urban buses, coaches, tourist buses, minibuses, camper vans, driving cabs for airport vehicles, fork-lift trucks for handling in ports and industrial areas, farming machine tools, roadwork machinery, etc.
